LEXINGTON, May 7. SCHEME of a LOTTERY

WE are informed by letters from Nashville, of a late date, that a boat with settlers destined for the district of Cumberland, was lately taken by the savages in the Tennessee river, below the Muscle Shoals.—Three Chickasaw Indians who were on board this boat, and escaped by swimming, got into Nashville half starved, and bring this account: they add that the people on board the boat were all murdered in their fight.—Further accounts from the same place add, that a Maj. Hickman, a Surveyor had been lately killed by the savages.

A Correspondent observes, that every hour produces fresh evidences, of the futility of treating with a race of beings, who acknowledge no laws, human or divine; and who can be restrained from outrage and hostility, by a sense of personal danger only.—Away with such puny doctrines, repugnant to the experience of our age, to sound policy, and to the sense of humanity.—Let the nation assert its own power, convince the feeble enemy of his impotence, and we lay him at our feet.—To accomplish these desirable purposes, so far as they relate to the savages N. W. of the Ohio, nothing more is necessary, than the successful issue of the depending operations. Then let the people of Kentucky, with one heart and with one hand, go to the glorious work, and never cease their exertions, until it is happily terminated.

I wish to contract for a considerable quantity of Barley to be delivered to me in Lexington, next fall. Spring Barley would be preferred. Also a quantity of well cured Hops.
